JAPS REPULSED IN HOT SKIRMISH

The Situation in the East Remains Unchanged Today.

Port Arthur Being "Starved Out"—Baltic Fleet Reaches Suez Canal.

NO GENERAL LAND FIGHTING

Washington, Nov. 25.—Unofficial advices received from what is believed to be a trustworthy source are to the effect that Japanese are today making a supreme effort to capture Port Arthur, under orders from Tokio.

Eleven Taken Prisoners.
St. Petersburg, Nov. 25.—It is announced that during the affair of the outposts Tuesday eleven Japanese prisoners were taken by Russian scouts. The skirmish is said to have been south of Shakhe river. Since then everything has been quiet.

Terms Agreed Upon.
St. Petersburg, Nov. 25.—The terms of the Anglo-Russian convention, growing out of the slaughter among the Hull fishing fleet by the Russian fleet en route to the far east, were signed this afternoon.

Japs Worsted.
Mukden, Nov. 25.—The Japanese made a fresh attack on Poutloff Hill the night of November 22. Their advancing ranks were decimated by a Russian shell fire. Some Japanese secured lodgement on the slopes of the hill, but were driven out at the point of the bayonet, when the whole Japanese contingent fled. A similar attempt was made the same night south of Erdagzou, which also was repulsed with a bayonet charge. The Japanese lost heavily, while the Russian's loss was seventy killed.

A band of 1,500 Chinese bandits, with six guns, under Japanese officers, coming from the direction of Liao river, was in conflict with three sorties of border scouts near the station of Kaiuan early on the morning of November 23. The scouts charged without giving the bandits' battery time to come into action. The bandits made feeble resistance and fled in all directions, leaving 200 of their number dead. The Russian loss was trifling.

A Japanese column of two companies attempted to penetrate the Russian eastern flank November 23, but was met by two squadrons of Russian cavalry and driven off with severe loss.

What Japs Hold.
Headquarters Third Japanese Army Before Port Arthur, Nov. 25, via Fusan, Nov. 25.—The only permanent forts in possession of the Japanese are two Panlung forts captured in August. They hold advance works of Rihlung redoubt called Fort Kurapatkin, an entrenched hill miscalled Fort Kobu Hill, Sachitakiyama, and one hundred and seventy-four meter hill.

They also occupy the caponiers, galleries and moats of two Rihlung forts and the north Kekwan fort.

More About Port Arthur.
London, Nov. 25.—A correspondent at Moscow of the Telegraph claims authority for the statement that General Stoessel's dispatch sent by the torpedo boat Rastropny informed the emperor that the Port Arthur garrison was being starved out, with other frank details of its actual condition, showing that the fall of the fortress is inevitable.

Only Skirmishes so Far.
Japanese Army, Near Mukden, Nov. 25.—The Russians are showing activity at the front. Detachments of Russians attacked two places on our left center and the center repulsed the attack immediately, while the left was victorious after a hard fight. The Japs have occupied Poutuen and

THOUSAND KILLED BY TRIBESMEN

Uprising Reported in Altai, Siberia.

Peasants Armed With Rifles and Killed the Bloodthirsty Tribesmen.

SULTAN OFFERED BIG LOAN

St. Petersburg, Nov. 25.—An uprising is reported from the province of Altai, Siberia. A thousand Kalmac tribesmen were slaughtered by peasants whom the government armed with rifles where an uprising of Kalmacs was reported imminent. The clubs of the tribesmen were of no use against the bullets of their opponents.

Sultan Offered a Loan.
Berlin, Nov. 25.—It is learned that a group of wealthy Jews have offered to extricate the sultan of Turkey from his financial difficulties by a loan of twenty-five million dollars, on condition that the sultan permit the Jews to colonize in Palestine unhindered. A special envoy traveled to Constantinople and discussed the proposition with the sultan, who asked for time to consider the matter.

HANGED TODAY.
Safelblower and Murderer of Policeman Executed.

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 25.—Frank Duncan, the noted safe-blower, was executed here today for the murder of Policeman Kirkley four years ago. Duncan escaped from jail after being sentenced, but was recaptured in Florida a short time ago. He declared he was innocent of murder on the gallows.

SCHOOL TEACHER
Cut Her Throat on Train, But Will Recover.

Beaumont, Nov. 25.—While en route from New Orleans to this city on a Southern Pacific train Miss Eva Smith, a school teacher from Monroe, Wis., attempted suicide by cutting her throat with a pocket knife. The wound is not considered dangerous.

Bank Will Pay in Full.
Wooster, Ohio, No word has been received of the whereabouts of President Obliher and Director Zimmerman, of the Wooster National Bank, which closed Wednesday. The receivers believe the bank will pay in full.

the Russians left many dead on the field. There is little indication of a general engagement, although the armies are in such close contact that a battle may be precipitated by some of the numerous skirmishes.

King of Siam a Belligerent.
London, Nov. 25.—Letters received here announce that the king of Siam, roused by the successes of the Jap forces in their fight against the Russians is determined to rearm his followers and establish his own arsenal. The king has also asked the Indian government to lend him artificers.

Fleet Reaches Suez.
Port Said, Nov. 25.—The first division of the Russian Baltic fleet for the far east, entered Suez canal today.

THE PRESIDENT NOW ON HIS WAY

Left at Midnight for the Exposition.

Will Return to Washington, Arriving There Tuesday Morning.

PANAMA PARTY ARRIVES

Washington, Nov. 25.—The president and party left Washington at midnight via the Pennsylvania railroad for St. Louis.

The president will arrive at St. Louis at 9 o'clock tomorrow, Saturday morning. Saturday will be spent in visiting various points in the exposition grounds. At night the presidential party will attend a banquet in the main building of the Tyrolean Alps. Sunday will be passed quietly in St. Louis and at midnight the president and party will leave for Washington, arriving here at seven Tuesday morning.

Arrived at Panama.
Panama, Nov. 25.—The American congressional party arrived here yesterday and were met at the station by a committee of residents, General Davis, commander of the canal zone, John Finley, Wallace, engineer in charge of the construction of the canal and Minister Barrett.

Americans in Berlin.
Berlin, Nov. 25.—Thanksgiving day was observed by 200 American residents of Berlin with a banquet at the Kaiserhof, Consul General Mason presided and addressed the company on the prosperity of the United States. A telegram of felicitation was sent President Roosevelt.

Reaches Pittsburg.
Pittsburg, Nov. 25.—The president's special train en route to St. Louis arrived here this morning. After a change of engines the train stated west over the Vandalla route. The president waved greetings from the platform of the car as the train passed through the city.

GOT HIS.
Baseball Umpire Has Some Rights, After All.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 25.—James O'Keefe, a baseball umpire, was given a $400 sealed verdict against the Hackensack wheelmen's association for criticism of his decisions in a ball game played between a Hackensack and another team in the summer of 1903 by a jury here today. O'Keefe sued for $25,000 damages for defamation of character and to his reputation. In commenting on the question, Judge Dickey said: "Baseball umpires are peculiar people. They are not content to die quiet at home, but seek out the lime-light of the diamond. Their business invites criticism, and they should take it philosophically. However, robbery and bribery are charges that should not, with impunity, be made against them."

MAJOR DELMAR
Was Yesterday Sold to C. K. G. Billings for $15,000.

New York, Nov. 25.—Major Delmar, the world's champion trotting gelding, with an unpaired trotting record of 2:01 1-4 and a paced trotting record of 1:59 3-4, was sold at the Old Glory sale yesterday for $15,000. The purchaser was C. K. G. Billings, the owner of Lou Dillon. It was announced that Billings would race Major Delmar and Lou Dillon in an effort to break the world's record. Major Delmar was consigned by E. E. Smathers, who bought him last year for $40,000.

$50,000 LOSS.
By Fire in Milwaukee Yesterday in a Knitting Factory.

Milwaukee, Nov. 25.—Fire yesterday in a building occupied jointly by the Taber Glove and Kalamazoo Knitting company caused a loss estimated at $50,000.

BLEW UP THE BANK AND GOT $3,000

Robbers Make a Good Haul in Maryland.

Tennessee Man Kills His Son and an Indiana Man His Wife.

THE CHAPTER OF CRIME

La Platte, Md., Nov. 25.—A number of men blew up and practically destroyed the building of the Southern Maryland Savings bank. They secured three thousand dollars cash. The robbers, after securing the money, escaped, cutting telegraph and telephone wires before leaving the vicinity.

Killed His Wife.
Milan, Ind., Nov. 25.—Clifford Darling shot and killed his wife and then attempted suicide by poisoning. It is believed Darling, who has been arrested, will recover.

Killed His Son.
Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 25.—In a dispute over farm work, Payne Hickman killed his son, Walter, aged 21, by striking him on the head with a stick.

He Was Murdered.
Bemidji, Minn., Nov. 25.—The body of Jacob Dryhaug, postmaster at Shotley, who disappeared a month ago, was found on Shore Red lake. It is believed Dryhaug met with foul play, as he was known to have had a large sum of money on his person when he disappeared. Dryhaug started to row to the postoffice, two miles from the village on October 23.

MAYOR FINED

Arkansas Official Charged With Contemptible Act.

Fined, Expelled By Masons and May Be Disbarred From Practice.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 25.—Mayor John V. Roberts of Searcy was tried before Justice Stebbins on a charge of conspiracy to send Walter Gregory to the penitentiary on a trumped-up larceny charge, in order to disqualify Gregory from testifying against him in his appeal case before the White county circuit court. The jury falling back upon common law, returned a verdict of guilty and assessed a fine of $50.

Gregory is the young man whose confession of his connection with the famous Lightie insurance swindle led to the conviction of both John Roberts and Dr. R. G. Lightie upon charges of grave robbery. Witnesses testified that Roberts gave an inmate of a disorderly house a gold watch, with the understanding that she place it in Gregory's pocket and have him arrested for stealing it.

Judge Trieber of the federal court today issued an order citing Roberts to appear in his court on December 6 and show cause why he should not be disbarred from practicing before that court. Roberts was expelled from the Searcy Masonic lodge Tuesday night. There are four felony charges growing out of the life insurance swindle cases at Searcy, still pending against him and Dr. Lightie.

THE TWENTY-SECOND
Man Has Been Killed At Thebes Bridge.

Murphysboro, Ill., Nov. 25.—Henry Stuttle, an iron worker, employed in the construction of the new bridge spanning the Mississippi river at Thebes, Ill., was knocked from the bridge yesterday by a large block, and met death in the waters below. His body has not been recovered. But little is known of him, and his place of residence is unknown. This is said to be the twenty-second employee to meet violent death since the bridge was commenced, three years ago.

ENDED HIS LIFE WITH A PISTOL

Robert L. Gilbert Blew Out His Brains Through Despondency.

Business Cares and the Death of His Children Some Time Ago Unbalanced His Mind.

WAS POPULAR YOUNG MAN

Mr. Robert L. Gilbert, a caboose carpenter employed in the local I. C. shops, who resides near the Nolan grocery, near Goebel avenue, in the Worten addition, committed suicide this morning about 5:30 o'clock by shooting himself through the head with a 38-caliber pistol, which was found by his side when his wife was awakened by the report of the pistol and ran in to find her husband lying on the floor, his head in a pool of blood which was fast increasing in size from two streams which gushed from both temples.

Mr. Gilbert got up about 5:30 o'clock this morning and dressed. His wife remained in bed and asked him to make a fire in an adjoining room. He kissed her and left. Mrs. Gilbert dozed off to sleep and was suddenly awakened by a noise like that of something heavy dropping. She got out of bed and ran into the room to find her husband lying on the floor, blood and brains oozing from a horrible-looking wound in the temple. A pistol by his side told the tale.

Mrs. Gilbert gave an alarm and Mrs. Jeff Robertson and Adrian Hoyer were summoned. They could do nothing for the wounded man and he died shortly before 8 o'clock surrounded by members of the family and friends.

An examination of the wounds show that he had fired one shot through the left temple, the ball coming out at the other side. The wounds were such that death would have resulted instantly but for Mr. Gilbert's remarkable vitality. The physicians did all they could to ease the pain, but saw his condition was hopeless from the start. He was never conscious after firing the fatal shot.

Gilbert was about 35 years of age and had been living here the greater part of his life, coming originally from Calloway county, it is said. He had been working for the I. C. until a few months ago when he decided to purchase a half interest in the Nolan grocery. He remained in the grocery business for several weeks and finally tiring of this, he sold out to his partner and went to St. Louis and other cities to work, finally returning to Paducah and seeking employment in the local shops again.

He often told his fellow-workmen that he was sorry he sold out his grocery interest as he could have done much better in this business than at his trade of caboose carpentering. He seemed to brood over this a great deal and in addition, last year two of his children died within a short time, and the grief and shock are believed to have affected his mind. It is said he had never appeared to be the same since, and that finally despondency caused him to take his life.

The deceased was quite popular with his many friends. He leaves a father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Gilbert who reside on Huntington Row, a brother, Mr. William Gilbert, two sisters residing near Benton, Marshall county, a wife and one small son. He was a man of quiet disposition and suicide was the last thing his family and friends thought he would resort to. He had not been complaining, and his domestic life had been happy.

Acting Coroner Jesse Young held an inquest over the remains of Mr. Gilbert this morning and the verdict was that he came to his death by a pistol ball, not stating whether with suicidal intent, or not because the evidence was very uncertain.

The face bore no powder burns, it is said, and this leads some of his friends to believe that Gilbert was preparing to put on his hat, which lay on a machine near by, and that his pistol was under his hat and fell off. It developed that he had been in the grocery business again and had bought an interest in the Nolan

THE NEW COMPANY IS NOW ORGANIZED

And it Will Operate on Four Rivers.

Understood It Will Buy the Cowling and Now Controls the Linehan.

RYMAN LINE TO BE SOLD

A deal has been consummated by which a company to be known as the Nashville Transportation company will enter the transportation business in the Cumberland Valley. The company will operate tow boats and barges, aggregating 5,000 tons in capacity, on the Ohio, Cumberland, Tennessee and Mississippi rivers.

The incorporators of the company are John B. Ransom, John W. Love, Walter Keith, A. L. Hayes, Capt. T. M. Gallagher, Capt. T. G. Ryman, Jr., and Capt. Shep Green. John B. Ransom has been elected president; John W. Love, vice-president; Walter Keith, secretary and treasurer; Capt. T. G. Ryman, Jr., superintendent of the company. All are principally of Nashville.

Capt. T. M. Gallagher is fitted for the position of traffic manager by reason of his twenty-seven years with the Ryman line of steamboats. He was a large part of that time manager of the line.

The company will begin operations with two tow boats and two fleets of barges, one of eleven barges and the other of seven. The Linehan, formerly of the Ryman line, will be controlled by the new company. An option has been secured on the steamer George H. Cowling and her fleet of six barges. The purchase will probably be made this week. This boat is at Paducah, and Capts. Ryman and Green are now here to make the purchase. Capt. J. S. Tyner and Frank Lester are promoting a scheme to buy the Ryman line of boats, including the packets Dudley, Butteroff, Richardson and Dunbar. The purchase has not yet been consummated, but will be, it is thought, before the week closes. All arrangements for the organization of the company have been completed except closing the purchase.

THREE AT ONCE.
Marriage Record of a Clarksville Squire.

Clarksville, Tenn., Nov. 25.—Squire B. J. Corban, of Corbandale, rose early, donned his best suit of clothes, walked part of the way and got here in time to marry three couples before the magistrates of this town got up—all three runaway couples from Kentucky—all three handsome couples, just such promising youngsters as delight the heart of President Roosevelt.

The contracting parties to this pleasant Greta Green affair were Jos. Green and Miss Ida Stearns, of Trigg county; Andrew Almy and Miss Stella Dennober; Geo. H. Almy and Miss Ruth Ford, of Hopkinsville, Ky. He carefully arranged the positions of the contracting and attracting couples as they stood up in a circle around him, and married them all under one unique, progressive ceremony that bristled with romance and beauty of diction.

$3,000,000 WORTH
Of Kentucky Tobacco Just Received in Ireland.

Belfast, Nov. 25.—A slight idea of the amount of tobacco consumed in Ireland can be obtained from the fact that a single shipment of tobacco from Kentucky, consigned to Gallagher Bros., this city, was valued, including tax, at $3,000,000. While this establishes the record for single imports of the weed, it only represents a small proportion of the total imports into the country.

stand this week. His people say it was his habit to take his pistol to the store in the day and bring it home at night, and he had probably placed it under his hat so he would not forget it when he started to leave

HOW THE EDITOR CAME TO SHOOT

Details of the Killing at Hickman.

Editor Shaw Had Been Threatened Several Times By His Uncle.

SELF DEFENSE THE VERDICT

Additional details of the killing at Hickman, mentioned briefly in yesterday's dispatches, show that Editor Mit Shaw, of the Hickman Courier, killed Bob Buck, his uncle, in self-defense.

The tragedy was not unexpected, as Buck had for days been threatening openly that he would kill Shaw. Buck was in the asylum at one time, but was released and till a few weeks ago it was thought his reason had been permanently restored. About ten days ago, however, he became violent again, and Mrs. Buck, for fear he would kill her, went to the home of her father in the county, her little daughter going to the home of Buck's nephew, Mr. Shaw. This angered Buck and for days he had been very violent.

Early yesterday morning Buck telephoned Mr. Shaw at his home that he (Buck) would be over during the morning to settle all their earthly differences. About 9 o'clock he called and tried to force his way in. All the doors save the one leading into the kitchen were locked, and through this one Buck entered. As soon as he saw Shaw, despite the pleading of his own child, Buck started to draw his pistol, and had it half exposed, when Shaw fired once, the bullet going all the way through Buck's head, killing him instantly.

So well were the circumstances known that when the coroner assembled his jury no other witnesses were heard but Mr. Shaw himself. The verdict was that Shaw had killed Buck in self-defense, and no warrant of arrest was issued.

Mr. Shaw, who is but twenty-five years of age, stands high in the community. Buck was about forty, and was buried today.

WENT BLIND

Dr. Griffith Had One Eye to go Out.

Sight Came Back, However—Some Minor Accidents.

Dr. B. B. Griffith went blind in his left eye yesterday and could not see for many hours.

The eye had been giving him trouble for about a week, seeming to be blurred. He paid no particular attention to it, thinking possibly he might have caught a slight cold in it, but yesterday he suddenly found himself to be entirely blind in that eye. He went home and had it treated and this morning can see again. It was a very unusual occurrence, and needless to say frightened the doctor very badly.

Mr. Henry Petter, foreman of the heading factory in Mechanicsburg, while hunting yesterday had his right eye badly injured by a flash of powder while he was firing his gun.

The powder flew into his eye and burned it very badly. He went to a specialist and had the injury treated and is much better this morning. The sight will not be permanently impaired.

Miss Jeanette Schroeder, aged 9 years, the daughter of Mr. J. C. Schroeder, of West Tennessee street, met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon.

She was playing in the back yard when the stable door caught her left hand and broke the little finger. Dr. Coolidge, of the I. C. hospital, was called and dressed the injury.

Mr. R. R. Sutherland has returned from St. Louis after attending the fair.

CUTICURA

Soap, Ointment and Pills
the World's Greatest Skin Cures.

PRICE THE SET $1

Complete Treatment for Every Humour, from Pimples to Scrofula.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalded head; the facial disfigurement, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants and the anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, tetter and salt rheum, all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy, have made them the standard skin cures and humoral remedies of the civilized world.

The grandest testimonial that can be offered the Cuticura remedies is their world-wide sale, due to the personal recommendations of those who have used them. From a small beginning in the simplest form, against prejudice and opposition, against monied hosts, countless rivals, and trade indifference, Cuticura remedies have become the greatest curatives of their time, and, in fact, of all time for nowhere in the history of medicine is to be found another approaching them in popularity and sale. In every clime and with every people they have met with the same reception. The confines of the earth are the only limits to their growth. They have conquered the world.

Sold throughout the world. Cuticura Soap, 25c. Ointment, 25c. Pills, 25c. per box of 10. Cuticura, Inc., Boston, U.S.A. Sole Importers, The J. C. F. Co., 100 N. 3rd St., St. Louis, Mo. Sole Importers, The J. C. F. Co., 100 N. 3rd St., St. Louis, Mo.

OPENING LOCKS.

Details For Next Saturday's Celebration Very Nearly All Arranged.

All arrangements for the celebration of Locks No. 1 and A at Nashville tomorrow are consummated. It is expected that many will attend the exercises.

The locks will be profusely decorated with flags and bunting, and excellent music will be furnished.

Several prominent men will deliver short addresses at the exercises to be held at Lock 1. Among them will be Gov. James B. Frazier, ex-Gov. Benton McMillin, Congressman John Wesley Gaines, Mayor A. S. Williams, Maj. H. C. Newcomer and M. T. Bryan, chairman of the Cumberland River Improvement commission. Several congressmen from Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois are expected to attend, as are some of the members of the Rivers and Harbors committee.

It was at first thought that several large steamboats from the Ohio river would participate in the celebration, but on account of low water it was not thought to be feasible. All of the launches of the Nashville Yacht club will participate in the procession, and an effort is being made to have all boats operating on the Cumberland at Nashville at that date.

If you want to buy or sell, rent or what not, a Sun want ad will serve you.

HARMONY IN K. I. T. IS NOW PROMISED

Paducah Association Recognizes the Legal Secretary.

A Meeting Will Be Called Shortly for Cairo or Paducah—Good News for Fans.

PADUCAH AND CAIRO UNITED

Mr. Gus Thompson, president of the Paducah Baseball Association, has written to K. I. T. Secretary M. J. Farnbaker, of Cairo, asking for a meeting of the league either at Paducah or Cairo within the next two weeks, for the purpose of outlining the league for next season and settling all matters pertaining to the league business.

The Cairo Bulletin has this to say about it:

"Paducah and Cairo—united we fall. Either may lose its own row—go it alone, perhaps with success, but there will be lacking in that case the strong degree of interest that certainly attaches to games between these formidable rivals. Here is a piece of good news for the fans of both cities. The olive branch held out by Cairo to its ancient rival has been accepted and good feeling restored and as a result the two cities will be found next season again fighting for supremacy on the baseball diamond, either in a league or otherwise, the former being the most preferable.

"The league secretary was the recipient yesterday of a letter from Mr. A. S. Thompson, president of the Paducah baseball club requesting that a meeting be called within the next two weeks in order that a circuit may be formed that will constitute the league next season."

Mr. Thompson wishes to restore order and harmony and this is the only way to do it. No reply has yet been received, but it is presumed Secretary Farnbaker will arrange for the meeting this week or next.

Chief Lloyd, the local manager, stated that he desired to get the league matters straightened out so that he could know what to do, having several contracts ready for signing as soon as the league is assured of holding together another year.

The Cairo Bulletin says: "The Paducah Sun referring to the statement made by the Bulletin that Cairo had tired of carrying a burden in the shape of non-playing Sunday towns says: 'Cairo balks! Yes, we balk, kick over the traces, but never where Paducah is concerned for whom we have always entertained the best of feeling and the past differences did not arise out of any ill feeling towards our rival, and in consequence of our just indignation against two officials who engineered a piece of contemptible business, were unable to make our position thoroughly understood—we cared nothing for championship honors during the past season, having had a surfeit in 1903, but only the desire to make a close, hot fight with an eyelash finish with Paducah. That is all the patrons cared for, we believe, in either city. If the pennant came to us on a technicality, we were and are still ready to decline such a dubious and questionable honor.'

THANKSGIVING DAY

WAS APPROPRIATELY OBSERVED AT RESCUE MISSION.

The Thanksgiving service at the Union Rescue mission last night was a very earnest and spiritual one and much good was done. Mrs. R. W. Chiles, in the absence of Mr. Chiles, who is attending a conference on home mission work in St. Louis, desires to thank the generous public for the many nice donations made to the mission on yesterday. Many needy ones were helped and made glad.

The Union Rescue Mission is arranging to have its usual charity Christmas tree this year, and will be glad of any contributions for it. Much pleasure was given by the tree last year to the children who have no Christmas at home, and it is desired to do even more good this year. Let the generous people remember this worthy cause.

The past year at Rescue Mission has been blessed with much good accomplished among a class that the churches do not reach.

HOW HE PASSED THEM

(Original.)
"When poverty comes in at the door, Tom, love flies out of the window."

"It shouldn't, Molly."

"But it does. If you had plenty of money I'd love you as I did when I married you. But now, slaving as I do—"

"It isn't so much that, Molly; it's seeing other women enjoying the splendor of wealth."

Tom Beverly made no reply. He knew that "a willful woman must have her own way." One day a few months after this interview he came home to find her gone. She left a note saying that she had no fault to find with him except that his poverty made life a burden to them both. He wrote her that he regretted her inability to take comfort with him in a homely way; that he was not a "dog in a manger," and if she found an opportunity to marry a fortune he would not stand in her way.

Mrs. Beverly was an attractive woman and soon found just such an opportunity as her husband had referred to. She wrote Beverly asking if he would stand by his word and help her get a divorce. Beverly, who had vainly hoped his course would bring her back to him, was much disappointed, but he kept his promise and signed a paper confessing to a number of sins, any one of which would turn any wife against him. Mrs. Beverly got her divorce and became Mrs. Willard. She had married Beverly for love; Willard she married for money.

The first time Beverly saw his former wife after their separation he was trudging along on foot from business. She was riding with her second husband in a glittering equipage with both coachman and footman. The sight gave the deserted man a shock. His philosophy was all gone out of him. Still he was too generous to grudge the couple their wealth. But he was human enough to wish to surpass them in their own luxuries. He then and there made a resolve that he would one day drive by the couple in a more resplendent carriage and horses than they possessed.

Beverly was still a young man. He had been laying the foundation for his business, drawing a niggardly sum for living expenses, often making nothing, and when he made anything above expenses leaving it in his business for capital. It was this that had tired out his wife. The first year after she left him he made a fine unexpected profit. This put him on his feet, and following his resolve, he expanded his business and made money rapidly. In five years he was a rich man, and in five years more he was more than a millionaire.

Meanwhile Willard, who was a daring speculator, was getting on the wrong side of the cotton market, and his fortune was melting away. Beverly had been too poor to move in the same set with him and his wife and consequently had not kept track of them. By the time Beverly had accumulated sufficient means to live as they did Willard had lost everything and retired with his wife to a dingy cottage in the suburbs. Consequently Beverly did not even hear of their altered circumstances.

One day Beverly was trying a new pair of horses he had purchased. They were high steppers, their harness was gold mounted, and on the rear seat of the sparkling drag behind them sat two liveried lackeys with folded arms. Beverly came upon the last carriage of a funeral procession. He was obliged to check his restive horses for awhile; but, coming to a point where the road widened, he pushed on beside the train. Passing the mourners' carriage, a woman in widow's weeds sat looking out of the half drawn curtain. Beverly glanced aside and in the melancholy face saw for only a moment the features of his former wife.

For ten years he had struggled to be able to pass her and the man who had supplanted him with a finer equipage than theirs. Alas for human triumphs! When they come they wither. The woman he had desired to excel was riding in a common cab, her husband in a barge.

Beverly drove on to the city, where he learned all the late happenings to his rival and the woman who could not wait for fortune to come by slow process, if indeed it would ever come. When the widow returned to her shabby home she found a note there addressed in a well known hand.

She opened it, and out fluttered a check. It was for a thousand dollars and was signed "Thomas Beverly."

The note read: "For ten years I have struggled to possess the means to outdo you and the man who took my place. This was to be my revenge. Death and misfortune have deprived me of it. I wish for no revenge, but if you can find it in your heart to use the check I enclose you will give me comfort."

The next day the check was returned, with a note: "I would gladly give you comfort, Tom, and I am not too proud to accept your kind offer. It is simply a crushing sense of my unworthiness and your superiority. Providence gave me the means to be happy, but I threw happiness away. I cannot atone for my fault. I can only bear a merited punishment and work my way to self respect."

Two years passed, during which the woman worked faithfully and patiently. Then Tom Beverly convinced her that she could better atone for her fault by comforting him, and they remarried. Old age with them was tinged with sadness at what they had lost; otherwise they were happy.

INTERESTING, IF TRUE.

You Can Try It For Yourself and Prove It.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs or other wholesome food, and this claim has been proven by actual experiment which anyone can perform for himself in the following manner: Cut hard-boiled eggs into very small pieces, as it would be if masticated, place the egg and two or three of the tablets in a bottle or jar containing warm water, heated to 98 degrees (the temperature of the body), and keep it at this temperature for three and one-half hours, at the end of which time the egg will be as completely digested as it would have been in the healthy stomach of a hungry boy.

The point of this experiment is that what Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do to the egg in the bottle it will do to the egg or meat in the stomach, and nothing else will rest and invigorate the stomach so safely and effectually. Even a little child can take Stuart's Tablets with safety and benefit if its digestion is weak and the thousands of cures accomplished by their regular daily use are easily explained when it is understood that they are composed of vegetable essence, aseptic pepsin, diastase and Golden Seal, which mingle with the food and digest it thoroughly, giving the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate.

Dieting never cures dyspepsia, neither do pills and cathartic medicines, which simply irritate and inflame the intestines. When enough food is eaten and promptly digested there will be no constipation, nor in fact will there be disease of any kind, because good digestion means good health in every organ.

The merit and success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are world-wide and they are held at the moderate price of 50 cents for full-sized package in every drug store in the United States and Canada, as well as in Europe.

WELL IT'S HERE

THE CITY SEAL, MADE TO ORDER, ARRIVED TODAY.

Yesterday afternoon the new city seal arrived from St. Louis and this morning Mayor Yeiser sent a letter with copies of the seal, to the navy department.

The seal is a circle with the name "City of Paducah, McCracken county, Ky." In the center is the picture of an Indian standing erect with bow and arrow in his hand.

The navy department wanted the seal to put on the carved gangway headboards of the gunboat Paducah recently launched at Morris Heights, N. Y.

STOLE FINE CHINA

THIEVES PAY A VISIT TO MR. FRANK FERRIMAN.

Thieves entered the lattice back porch of Mr. Frank Ferriman, at 233 North Seventh street, last night and broke into the refrigerator, stealing provisions and several fine pieces of Haviland china.

The theft was not discovered until this morning when Mrs. Ferriman found the door open and the china gone. The provisions amount to little but the china is worth $10. The matter has been placed in the hands of the police who will attempt to identify the china.

Best Liniment on Earth.

Henry D. Baldwin, Supt. City Water Works, Shullsburg, Wis., writes: "I have tried many kinds of liniment; but I have never received much benefit until I used Ballard's Snow Liniment for rheumatism and pains. I think it the best liniment on earth." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by DuBois, Kolb & Co.

NEW MINISTER

FOR THIRD STREET CHURCH WILL BE REV. PETER FIELDS.

The assignment of Rev. Brasfield to the Third street Methodist church here has been altered by the presiding elder, with the concurrence of the bishop. Rev. Brasfield, sent to the Third street church, desires to remain at Barlow, and Rev. Peter Fields, of Wickliffe, and Bardwell is willing to take the Paducah pulpit, and is expected in time to preach Sunday. Rev. Hamilton, who has been in charge of the church, goes to Woodville.

NO MEETING AT ALL.

Last night only two aldermen were present at the regular meeting and as this did not constitute a quorum the meeting was adjourned until tonight. The board intended to meet, allow the accounts, and then adjourn until tonight, and it is presumed the members thought it not worth while to meet just to allow bills when this could be done tonight with only one day's delay.

Mr. Charles Alcott has returned from Chicago, Milwaukee and other northern cities.

KEPT SECRET A YEAR

Covington, Ky., Nov. 25.—Wedding guests assembled at the home of John Ryle, at Latonia, were greatly surprised by the announcement that the supposed prospective bride and groom, Edna Ryle and William Aker, had been married over one year ago at Lawrenceburg, Ind. They eloped on November 11, 1903.

WEDDING IN TRIGG.

Cadiz, Ky., Nov. 25.—One of the most beautiful weddings in Cadiz for some time was solemnized at the residence of Mrs. O. D. Jagoe, on East Main street, when her oldest daughter, Miss Nancy Lee Jagoe, was united in marriage to Prof. D. W. Bridges, of Greenfield, Tenn. Prof. Bridges is connected with the Greenfield college, while his bride is one of the handsomest and most popular young women of Cadiz.

STILL SORE

SOME OF THE CAIROITES STILL ENTHUSIASTICALLY SORE.

Grover Land, the base-ball catcher, says that Cairo fans take the defeat of Cairo for the pennant as hard now as at the first of the season, as evidenced by the fans' action towards him and Eddie Powers, center fielder for Paducah the latter part of the season, when Land went down with the High school foot ball team a few days ago to see the game.

Land and Powers went out on the field and when the fans saw them began to cry out, "robbers," "thieves" and names of this kind. They jeered and hooted at the former Indians with as much enthusiasm as if it were in the middle of the base ball season.

Land says there is some satisfaction in beating Cairo after all, and while the press at Cairo has never admitted Cairo was beaten, the fans have and they are pretty sore, too.

DUBOIS KOLB & CO.

THE LATEST TOYS FOR THE LITTLE FOLKS

Many of the young folks are wondering what kind of toys will be the vogue this Christmas. Most of them have been ordered, and are described by a connoisseur as follows:

Here is something that is the best ever for the boys. It is a rubber "tomcat"—at least that is what it is called. It is of rubber, sharp pointed at both ends, and takes the place of the bit of wood with which the boys play cat and hockey.

Barking dogs are other small toys which are attractive. The dog is metal, there is a rubber bulb attached, and when this is pressed the dog barks in natural bow-wow tones. There are cigars of natural size and appearance which are either whistles or small balloons, according to construction.

But the tally-ho horn is one of the best of the inexpensive noisemakers. It is not large, in brilliant colors, and makes a sound of aggressiveness quite out of proportion to the size.

In pottery for the small girl there are brown steins and pitchers, each about an inch high, which cost three cents apiece. On the steins in low relief are little men putting other steins to use and on the small pitchers designs of flowers or birds.

Hoo-dads are other things that are interesting. They are nice little boxes filled with Tom Thumb toys, some for boys and some for girls. There are little horses, little articles of furniture, watch charms and rings, sometimes a dozen in a box.

Little lead toys are quite new and useful for Jack Horner pies for birthday and holiday occasions. There are trolley cars, pigs on wheels, horses on wheels, pushcarts, one with a man and the other with a woman pusher.

The donkeys which jump when a rubber bulb to which they are attached by a rubber tube is pressed are better than the similar jumping animals which have gone before them. With each jump the donkey brays in a realistic fashion.

There are other horns in the shape of champagne bottles and ginger beer jugs. There are two sizes of each of these. There are more often used for favors than for the little people.

"Palais des Illusions" is a quaint toy, a small round court encircled by high sides and without a top. At the lower part on one side there is a peep hole and in the under part a screw. Turning this screw, the eye is applied to the peep hole and the little people inside the court can be seen to walk.

Cornets for the small boys are as unlike the ordinary instrument that goes by the name as possible, but they can be played more easily. There is a broad body, with a mouth-piece at one end, and the keys by which they are played are set down the center. A sheet of music goes with each accordion.

why they can't.

The Cairo crowd here yesterday were ladies and gentlemen, and seemed to enjoy the day. Paducahans were highly pleased at the opportunity to entertain them.

Cairo not only defeated Paducah but Mayfield as well. They played Mayfield at Mayfield. Mayfield's quarterback, Nichols, got hurt in a scrimmage and having no substitute, Mayfield would not finish and the game was awarded Cairo by a score of 17 to 0. The same teams previously played a 0 to 0 game.

PADUCAH TO GO

CAIRO IS TO ENTERTAIN RECENT DELEGATIONS.

Invitations have been issued to a 9 o'clock dinner to be given at The Holiday Saturday evening, November 26.

As a result of this dinner, to which has been invited the Cairo and Paducah delegations to the Huntington, W. Va., convention, much good news is expected, says the News.

Upon the return trip to Cairo from Huntington, the local delegation adjourned to meet at the call of its chairman, Mr. George Parsons, and the dinner is the result. Then and there will be discussed in all its broadest and most liberal form, all relating to the betterment, progress and improvement of our city in the future.

CURED CONSUMPTION.

Mrs. W. B. Evans, Clearwater, Kan., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months. The doctors said that he had quick consumption. We procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him. That was six years ago. Since then we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal." 25c, 50c, $1.00. Sold by DuBois, Kolb & Co.

COOL WOODSON'S OPPORTUNITY (Louisville Times.)

The "most unkindest cut of all" to Mr. Woodson, editor of our contemporary, the Paducah News-Democrat and the Owensboro Messenger, is this paragraph from the Sturgis News-Democrat:

"Editor Urey Woodson may now continue his talents to giving out circulation figures."

CONSTIPATION.

Health is absolutely impossible, if constipation be present. Many serious cases of liver and kidney complaint have sprung from neglected constipation. Such a deplorable condition is unnecessary. There is a cure for it. Herbine will speedily remedy matters. C. A. Lindsay, P. M., Bronson, Fla., writes, Feb. 12, 1902: "Having tried Herbine, I find it a fine medicine for constipation." 50c bottle. Sold by DuBois, Kolb & Co.

NEWS OF THE RIVERS.

The New York Marine Journal says:

"The hull and machinery of the ill-fated steamer General Slocum were sold at auction in this city by United States Commissioner Alexander, as trustee for the claimants, on Tuesday, to a dealer in second-hand machinery. If we could have afforded it we would have rendered the steam-vessel interest of the United States the greatest service we could imagine by purchasing this hull and burning it, in fact, wiping it out of existence, so that its name might never be seen or known again on a steamer. For aside from the great mortality its partial destruction has caused, it has done more injury to the steamboat excursion business and the steam vessel industry generally, through misapprehension and misunderstanding as to the cause of this terrible disaster, than anything ever before known. Because of it we are led to believe that the steamboat laws are to be rid-dled, the personnel of the steamboat inspection service decapitated, and a general upsetting of its entire system, when neither the steam-vessel owners, the steam-vessel inspection service, the lack of law or rules to govern its protection from fire, were at fault, but simply a case of non-enforcement of the law through the steamboat being equipped with men ignorant of how to put out the incipient fire which caused the disaster."

The Ayer and Lord tie office came very near being destroyed by fire Monday afternoon at Brookport. It seems that the old fireplace had been closed and a pipe inserted above and a stove put in to replace the fireplace. Fire had fallen down from the stove-pipe and caught the boards with which the opening was closed, and Dr. Young happened in just as the flames were scorching the mantel piece and saved the building by prompt action.—Brookport Eagle.

Capt. Jack McCaffery, owner of the Ten Broeck, has received the $5,000 insurance he held on his boat, and the company takes the bulk. He has gone to Davenport, Ia., to get the Kit Carson, which he has chartered to fill his contracts towing ties on Tennessee river. The boat will be brought here as soon as possible.

Capt. James Koger has returned from Decatur, Ala., where he attended the meeting of the Tennessee River Improvement Association. $550,000 was asked of congress for work on Tennessee river. Capt. Koger was elected a vice-president of the association and placed on several important committees.

The fine private launch Anita is above Caseyville, being unable to get down over the bar. She draws three feet and there is only twenty-inches there.

The harbor tug, Joe Seay, turned turtle Monday at Vicksburg and went down in 100 feet of water. Engineer Walter Bobbs and a negro deckhand were drowned. Capt. Dan Quinn and other members of the crew were picked up by a passing launch. The accident occurred at Young's Point a few miles north of Vicksburg.

A Pittsburg dispatch says: "The officers of Harbor 25, Masters and Pilots, are preparing to extend the system of report boxes to New Orleans. Boxes have already been placed between Pittsburg and Cairo, and it is estimated that twenty-five more can be used to advantage along the Mississippi river. The boxes are placed at convenient points along the river, and when a pilot discovers some new obstruction or shifted bar that is a menace to navigation he makes a report of it and leaves it in the nearest box. The next man along reads it, and in this way the pilots are able to keep posted on the condition of the channel and the shipping interests are benefited. It saves thousands of dollars a year in the prevention of accidents."

Gauge today is still four-tenths, with no rain and none expected.

The Royal comes and goes to Smithland every day.

The ferryboat still manages to keep going.

The Cowling has good crowds every day from Metropolis.

No boat can do anything at present in the Cairo trade. Several have tried it and failed since the river got so low.

The Henry Harley is due out of Tennessee river and goes back tomorrow night.

The Weather.

Continued fair tonight, with partly cloudy weather, and possibly rain or snow, Saturday.

A SENSIBLE VIEW.

It is a pity that all southern men, especially those in public life, do not take the same sensible view of our policies of government as Governor Blanchard, of Louisiana. In a recent speech at New Orleans, he expressed the same views endorsed by our most capable public-spirited eastern and northern men, and views directly opposed to those of Judge Parker, W. J.
Bryan, John Sharp Williams and other democratic leaders.

He said in part:

"Time was when the fathers of our country believed, as did the immortal
Washington, that it should be forever confined to the limits of our continent, but that time is past. Who is there now that knows how far to the west the boundary of these, our United States is destined to go? Who knows the limits of our country?
We have not stopped. At one great bound, the spirit of our country over-leaped 1,000 miles of ocean, and claimed the Sandwich Islands; with another leap, it reached the archipelago of the Philippines and besides those islands now like a colossus.
Where is our boundary to be drawn between the archipelago of the Philippines and the main-land of Asia?""I stand for the building for ourselves of the greatest fleet that rides the waves, that when our country demands peace the world may know she has the power to enforce it. Not to the present, but to the future do we address this demand."The people of Frankfort oppose a special session of the legislature to take up the question of changing the capitol site. They are doubtless suspicious and possibly not without cause. It is not clear why some of the Louisville influences now at work to secure this extra session should have been so suddenly aroused. For many years Kentucky has had a state capitol that is a disgrace to the state, yet Louisville did not at any time exert itself as much to secure a new capitol as it is now working to effect a change of site. The reason for the present activity is not known, and evidently Frankfort would like to "be shown" before indorsing the Louisville move.The last chapter of the Lee Suter tragedy at Louisville has probablybeen written. It may never be known who killed Suter, but if young Vaughan, fined $750 and subsequently sentenced to the reform school instead, did it there has been a great deal of talk to the contrary, and little real effort has ever been made to clear up the mystery. There is, in any event, a wholesome lesson against carrying and the promiscuous and reckless use of firearms, but people seemingly have little time to learn lessons nowadays, and just as many pistols will probably be carried and flourished as before.The state board of health warning against smallpox should be heeded by every city and county in Kentucky.
Vaccination and sanitation will go a long ways towards abating the disease where it exists, and preventing it where it has not yet made its appearance.The ladies of Paducah are making such a success of the Y. M. C. A. movement, they should go after the town cow when they have gotten the shaky institution on its feet again.
If they will make an effort to keep Old Bess off the streets, it is guaranteed in advance they will succeed.After the war some of the far eastern army officers might get good jobs as press agents,—if they wanted them. They always have something new, and usually it all amounts to the same thing in the end—nothing.The administration in Paducah has at last found something as slow as itself—some of the telephone and telegraph companies. If the city would have things done promptly, it should set a better example.A month from today—fire-crackers, Santa Claus, and the usual Christmas accents.A strong navy is "the surest guarantee of peace." Uncle Sam is going to have it.This is "the day after," and everybody has been in a good humor except the dyspeptic.Col. Potter and his cow arguments —bosh, bosh, rats!It is about time for Port Arthur to fall again.

NAVAL RECRUITS

ARE WANTED—OFFICERS TODAY
OPENED OFFICE HERE.This morning Yeomen U. W. Ross and P. A. Copeland, U. S. N., arrived from Cairo to open a marine recruiting station in Paducah. The office has been opened up in the Murrell building at 525 Broadway and will remain open until 5 o'clock on the afternoon of the 26th. All classes of applicants are wanted for the navy.
Machinists, shipwrights, firemen, engineers, bakers, tradesmen such as boiler, copper and blacksmiths are solicited, but especially are seamen and engineers wanted.The officers here simply make a preliminary examination and on Tuesday afternoon an enlisting officer from St.

sociation Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock, in the council chamber of the city hall. It is desired that all members of the association will be present, as there is business of importance to all to be considered. All citizens interested in the welfare of Paducah are also invited and urged to be present.H. E. THOMPSON, Sec.

Mrs. Rose Robertson Asks That Deeds be Set Aside.One to Kentucky Avenue and the Other to Fourth Street Property—Police Officers Sued.

$5,000 FOR MAKING ARREST

Attorneys R. T. Lightfoot, E. W.
Bagby and A. Y. Martin this morning filed two suits for Mrs. Rose C. Robertson against Jorie Sebastian, better known as Florence Patton, a former resident of Paducah, to recover a piece of property located near Eleventh street on Kentucky avenue, and also to exclude the defendant from making any claim to interest in property located at 126 South Fourth street.The petitions are filed separately, one for the Kentucky avenue property and the other for the Fourth street property.The petitions allege that the deeds made over to the defendant by the late James E. Robertson, husband of the plaintiff, were made without consideration—that is to say no money was paid to the party of the first part in the transaction, and because of this illegal delivery the plaintiff, Mrs. Robertson, whom the deceased J. E. Robertson named as the recipient of his entire estate of every kind, desires to have the deed to the Kentucky avenue property set aside and made over to her. The consideration that is said to have been given in this transfer was $5,000.In the second suit the allegations are that the defendant is attempting to claim an interest in the property located at 126 South 4th, occupied by the sheriff and other officers for offices, and the petition prays the court to take what steps are necessary to prevent her making any further claims on the property.Rachel Johnson, colored, has filed a suit in circuit court through Attorney J. M. Worten against Chief of Police James Collins, City Jailor Tom Evitts and Officer Henry Singery for $5,000 damages for false arrest.The facts in the case are alleged to be that one morning the little daughter of the plaintiff was accidentally shot by Sallie Holmes, a colored, and died from the effects a few minutes later. The Johnson woman was arrested and locked up for 24 days and the petition alleges was not permitted to attend the funeral of her child and because of her innocence suffered great mental anguish and was made ill by the confinement in the city jail.
She thinks she has been damaged to the extent of $5,000.Guy Little has filed suit against Emma Little for divorce on the grounds of abandonment. They are colored.

THE REHKOPF SUIT DISMISSED TODAY

Action Against Union Men Now
Out of Court.Plaintiff Says He Accomplished His Object—Judge Reed Today Aeted on Many Motions.

NEWS OF OTHER COURTS

CIRCUIT COURT.

The case of E. Rehkopf & Co. against the local Brotherhood of Leatherworkers, was this morning dismissed without prejudice in circuit court.This is a very interesting action and was dismissed because the plaintiff had secured the end he wished to attain when he brought it."We dismissed the suit," Attorney Charles K. Wheeler stated this morning "because we succeeded in accomplishing just what we wanted to. The suit was brought just after Mr. Rehkopf, my client, refused to accede to the demands of the union leather-workers and precipitated a strike.He attempted to secure other workmen to take the places of the strikers, but we alleged in the petition that some of the strikers attacked the non-union men and ran them away. We alleged that the strikers by intimadation and persuasion, got the employees away from the plant, and we filed the suit to restrain them from interfering with the business of Mr. Rehkopf in any way, and we succeeded in doing this, so a continuance of the case was unnecessary."Robert Benner was this morning granted a divorce from his wife, Martha Benner.Master Commissioner Cecil Reed this morning filed his report in the sale of the Seacoast Mineral Co. property and was allowed his commission, which amounted to $228.Judge Reed entered into the work of overruling motions with much spirit this morning. The following cases were acted on:Knoxville Woolen Mills Co. against Geo. C. Wallace and others, plaintiff, motion for a new trial overruled; C.
S. Lescher against the I. C. defendant's motion for a new trial overruled; Geo. Johnson against Paducah Laundry Co., plaintiff motion for a new trial overruled; Fraternal Construction Co., against the Jackson Foundry and Machine Co., defendant motion for new trial overruled; Eval-on Lyon against the Mergenthaler Horton Basket and Machine Co., defendant motion for new trial overruled; Barney Levitan against Mary and Joseph Baer, four cases, defendant's motion for new trial overruled;
D. A. Mitchell agent, against Thos.
H. Torian, plaintiff motion for new trial overruled; J. M. Carnahan against the Paducah City Railway Co., plaintiff motion for new trial overruled; Wm. Nansen & Son against J. E. English and others, plaintiff motion now trial overruled; Will Stephens against the Western Union Telegraph Co., plaintiff motion new trial overruled; Eaton, administrator Henry Fester, against the I. C., plaintiff motion new trial overruled; Frank Covington and Lenn Bethel against William Orr, plaintiff motion new trials overruled.

POLICE COURT.

Police Judge D. L. Sanders fined Ollie Cox, white, $30 and costs for keeping a disorderly house and will send her two children to the Louisville Orphan home if possible to get them there.The defendant's daughters are only about 14 years of age, and are said to be leading immoral lives. Judge Sanders gave the other a good straight talk and told her what he intended doing with her daughters. The girls were fined $10 and costs each for fighting.Dock Bails and Harry Miller, white, were fined $1 and costs for drunkenness.

Ed. Holland, colored, was continued.
The breach of the peace case against Tom Jones, colored, was left open.Pete Griffin, white, was fined $10 and costs for striking Harry Dean who was arrested and in the city jail for stealing a bicycle.It seems that Dean was arrested with the wheel in his possession and as Griffin was standing near claimed Griffin loaned him the wheel. Griffin was later arrested and brought before Dean who repeated that Griffin looked like the man he got the wheel from, whereupon Griffin knocked him down and kicked him.Daff Smith and Wm. Taylor, white, were arraigned for a breach of the peace and Smith fined $5 and costs and Taylor dismissed.L. U. Harris and Henrietta Short, colored, were arraigned for fighting, the former fined $10 and costs and the latter dismissed.Nathan Goodloe and William Cherry, colored, who had been doing a land office business in bootlegging on the river front, it is claimed, were given a partial hearing and the case left open.The case against Wood Jones, white, for grand larceny, was again continued until witnesses can be gotten here from Mayfield.Ida Hodges, colored, was held over to the grand jury for obtaining money by false pretenses. She is alleged to have stolen a blanket and sold it as her property.

PADUCAH GIRL

Mrs. A. B. Tucker Died Yesterday in Decatur, Ill.Was Miss Lulu Greif, Formerly of Paducah, and daughter of Squire Greif.News today reached the city of the death at Decatur, Ill., of Mrs. A. B.
Tucker, formerly Miss Lulu Greif, of Paducah, from peritonitis. She had been in a critical condition for some time, since the death of her child a few weeks ago.The deceased was a daughter of the late Squire Nick Greif, for many years a resident of South Second street.
She was married to Mr. A. B. Tucker less than a year ago, her husband being private secretary for Ed. Greif brother of the deceased a well known former Louisiana railroad superintendent, who some time ago went to Cuba and Porto Rico. Mr. Tucker accompanied his employer to Porto Rico, but could not stand the climate, and returned to the United States
about six months ago.The deceased leaves two brothers, Messrs. A. J. Greif Porto Rico, and Jamie Greif, Vicksburg, Miss., and two sisters, Mrs. J. B. Rowlett, of Louisville, and Mrs. W. L. Lowery, of Memphis, Tenn. The funeral took place today at Tuckertown, Ind.

CLIFF STORCH

Well Known Former Paducah Boy Now a Leading Man.Mr. Charles Middleton is playing in "Why Girls Go Wrong."It will doubtless be of interest to the many friends here of Mr. Clifford Storch, a former Paducah boy of great popularity, to learn that he is on the stage, and one of the best leading men in the business.Mr. Storch had his first experience on the stage in Paducah at La Belle park. He is now leading man in the "Why Women Sin" company, playing in the east, and is married to the in-genue of the company. He is said to be one of the handsomest men on the stage. It has been several years since he was in Paducah.Mr. Charles Middleton, who was formerly leading man at the park here, and last year at the head of his own company, is now leading man for Miss Flora May Clark, of Paducah, in
"Why Girls Go Wrong." Miss Clark, who in private life, is Mrs. James Young, has played the leads with this company all season. Her husband is one of the principal characters in "Beyond," also playing the east, they being unable to get leading parts in the same company.A few days ago the ship "George W. Truett, Jr.," was launched at Bath, Me., and Miss Clark was guest of honor of the party that went up from Norfolk Va., to attend the launching, the vessel being named for a boy of Norfolk. She was handsomely entertained and presented with souvenirs of the occasion.Mr. Wilbur Held, a former Paducah boy, is now playing in "Down the Pike" in New York, one of the newest musical comedies. Mr. Held used to take part in all the amateur local entertainments in Paducah, and for several years has done well on the musical stage.

WRANGLING

AN OLD COUPLE'S TROUBLES.

There is an old couple of Hillsdale, Kan., the husband 71 and the wife 67, who made a discovery late in life that would have saved lots of their troubles, something they learned about diet.

The old gentleman says: "One day the doctor told me my wife's trouble was not heart disease but her stomach, but she thought he was mistaken. As I had read several statements in the papers about Postum Food Coffee my mind was soon made up, and it was in the fall of 1901 that I got a package of Postum, asking my wife to try it."

"She said she did not believe it would help her, and so it was laid aside and she suffered all the winter, drinking coffee all the time until about the first of May when she was in terrible distress."

"One night about our bedtime she said she must have the doctor, but before you go fix a little Postum and I will try it."

"So I prepared half a pint of Postum according to directions, and as soon as she had drunk it it felt warm and nourished all over and in a little while her pain was gone. It was like magic. For a few meals she used a little coffee and then a wrangling began in her stomach each time, so finally she gave up coffee altogether and used Postum only. Better and better she got and finally all the old disease left."

"Since that time we have used nothing but Postum, nor have we had any occasion to call for the doctor since, and I now advocate Postum to everyone I meet."

Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich.

So many people say, "Coffee don't hurt," and then tell you they "know" a man 70 years old who has drunk it all his life. That don't prove that you can drink it. "One man's meat is another's poison." If coffee agrees and the drinker keeps well, stick to it, but if any kind of ail or disease show, better heed the warning and quit coffee.

"There's a reason."

Look in each package for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

THE TEACHERS

About Sixty-Seven are Now Here Attending Meeting.

Many Others are Expected on the Train This Afternoon—Reception Tonight.

The annual meeting of the First District Teachers' Educational Association began this morning at the High school building with about sixty-seven teachers enrolled.

Out of this number about fifty-two are from the city and the remainder from the district. Teachers are coming in on every train and by night the full enrollment is expected which will mean an enrollment of about one hundred and twenty.

This morning the program was carried out in full with the exception of one number, that of Mrs. Purcell, who was ill and unable to attend the meeting.

This afternoon the majority of the visiting teachers will come, arriving on the afternoon trains from the east. This is where the majority of the attending teachers come from. Local school workers are taking a great interest in the work and the meeting will prove most successful. The program for the remainder of the day is:

The White Haired Lady

[Original.]

At the P— house in the mountains was a young married woman whose hair was white as snow, though there was not a wrinkle in her face and her cheeks were a rosy red. The guests of the hotel soon came to know each other, and the white haired lady, as we called her, was the life of the house. She said things in a droll way, made light of inconveniences and misfortunes and was given to story telling.

One evening I ventured to ask her if there was any cause for her prematurely white hair. A pained look came on her face, but she could so well assume any expression that I was uncertain if it were genuine.

"Thereby hangs a tale," she said, and several persons who had heard the question and reply drew near to hear what was coming.

"I was spending a summer at Lake M.," she said. "I was engaged to be married at the time, and you know engaged people are as satisfactory to themselves as they are unsatisfactory to every one else. The railway station was half a mile from the hotel, and my lover used to come up once or twice a week for a short stay. He arrived on the 7:30 train in the evening, and I always walked to the station to meet him. At first it was quite light at that hour, but toward the end of August it began to grow pretty dark."

"One evening I started to make the walk as usual. I was uncertain of the time and was afraid I would be late. Hurrying through a wood, I was suddenly halted by a voice:

"What's your hurry?"

"Before me stood the dark form of a man. I couldn't see what he looked like or how he was dressed. I was very much frightened, but have no respect for those people who collapse on the slightest provocation, so I braced myself to conceal my terror. I replied calmly:

"I'm going to meet the 7:30 train."

"Oh, you are? Reckon yer feller's comin' up from town. Gals don't mostly hurry to meet trains for mother-in-laws and sick like."

"You are right," I replied. "My young man is to come in on the train. I think I'm late. Quite likely it is already in and I'm liable to meet him any moment. I think I hear his step now."

This was a pure bluff, intended to let the man understand that if he molested me he was liable to be overtaken in the act.

"Oh, I know your feller," he replied. "I've seen you and him walkin' from the station many a time. He's not much of a feller."

"Will you let me pass?" I said. "If not you may have an opportunity to learn what kind of a feller he is. He can't surely be far away."

"Pon my word, little gal, you're a plucky one. But as for that slab sided, knock kneed lover of yours, I've got something right here to fix him."

He put his hand in his pocket and drew out something—I could not see what it was, but of course it must be a pistol—and pointed it right at me. I wanted to shriek, but feared the man would consider a shriek a call for help and attack me at once, so I forced a laugh—a laugh of contempt for him and his weapon.

"It isn't the kind that kills at forty rods," he said. "It's a smoothbore. Its pills are not bad to take, especially if they hit one in the stomach. I could make that lover of yours lay down with it—that is, if I poured enough of the contents into him."

I laughed again, this time louder than before. I was nearer to a spasm. At the same time I fancied that my hilarity would make the fiend believe I considered myself perfectly safe.

"Do you suppose," I said, "that either he or I would go through this wood except we were armed to the teeth?"

"I had read somewhere of the men of the west, half a century ago, drawing bowie knives from the back of their necks, and putting my hand to my head. I pulled out a hairpin.

"By Jove, Cynthia, you're a jim dandy! You should go on the stage. But enough of this little farce—

"That was all I heard. I knew the man was my fiancé, and the relief was too much for me. I fainted and knew nothing till I saw him bending over me, holding a flask to my lips and felt the fiery liquor on my mouth.

"For heaven's sake," he exclaimed, "what does this mean? Are you all right again?"

"Why," I gasped, "did you draw that pistol on me?"

"Pistol? You little goose! It's nothing but a 'pocket pistol.' Thank heaven, I had it with me!"

"I thought you were a robber," I moaned.

"And I supposed you knew me all the time."

"By this time I was somewhat recovered. I got upon my trembling limbs, and, taking his arm, we walked to the hotel."

"I see," exclaimed one of the listeners, impatient for the end of the story. "The next morning your hair was white as snow."

"Yes; it was."

"In a single night?"

The white haired lady made no reply. Her husband laughed, arose and, going to the door, remarked:

"All made out of whole cloth."

The Grand Promoter

Another One of His Old Creditors Hunts
Him Up, but the Major Wins Out Again.

MAJOR CROFOOT, grand promoter of grand enterprises and originator of strictly original schemes, sat in his office with his feet on his desk and the stub of a cigar between his teeth when there came a timid knock at the door. He judged it too timid to be the knock of a creditor, but he was out on his figures. In response to his "Come in," a plainly dressed woman of fifty entered, and after one look at him she exclaimed:

"Thank heavens, but I have found you at last!"

"Madam, why this excitement?" queried the major as he turned red and white and seemed to be taken with a sudden pain.

"What! Don't you remember me?" "I do not. I can't recall that I ever saw you before in my life."

"You can't? And yet you roomed and boarded with me for ten weeks and then skipped out without paying me a dollar. I've hunted for you high and low, and now that I have found you at last you don't remember me?"

"What?" cried the major as he sprang up and almost embraced her. "Is this—can it be my dear old landlady of Green street—the woman who was a mother to me for so long?"

"Oh, you are beginning to remember!"

"My dear, dear woman, how could I ever forget? It was the change in you—you are looking so much younger and handsomer—that bothered me. Of course I remember, and your presence here makes me happy—looking as a girl of twenty-five. Then you didn't die?"

"Why should I die?" she asked as she sat down.

"But you were dreadfully sick?"

"Not a day. You owe me ten weeks' board at $8 per week, and I want the money. Ah, major, that was a mean trick of yours. I wouldn't have believed it of you."

"You refer to my leaving your house at night, but why did I leave?"

"To beat me out of $80."

"Never, my dear woman. When your cook came up to my room and told me that you were struck down with typhus fever and was raving in your bed and that the board of health had ordered us all out in an hour there was nothing to do but to go. I didn't even have the privilege of looking down upon your dear face as I went. A few days later I heard that you were dead, and as your heirs have not come for the $80 it has not been paid. It will now, however, you shall have a check for it at once."

"I HAVE FOUND YOU AT LAST!"

"And it was all a mistake?"

"All a mistake, my good woman."

"It may have been," she sighed, "but you never came back to see if I was dead."

"No, I didn't. Just at that time I had to go to Boston—to originate the American Two Handled Jug company, and I couldn't get around. I shed tears over your supposed death, however, and for a whole week I wore black on my shoes. By George, but I have a sudden thought."

"To pay me $80?"

"We want a secretary for the Two Handled Jug company, and why not give it to you? Why not reward one of my oldest and best friends—one who stood to me when the clouds of adversity lowered around my pathway. Say, I'll do it. You know all about jugs, don't you?"

"I've owned a few."

"Of course. All the jugs you have ever seen had but one handle. You generally had to turn 'em around to get at that. If it broke the jug was useless. A one handled jug must be lifted by one hand. See? Now imagine the convenience of a two handled jug. It's my own original idea. It's going to take the world by storm. I have already had inquiries from India, China and Japan."

"The president says it's a crack-jack. Rockefeller writes me that he'll invest $100,000 in it. Lillian Russell will drink from no other after this, and Maude Adams will display forty two-handled jugs in every act of her play. And you shall be secretary at a salary of $10,000 a year. All you'll have to do is to see that no jug goes out with less than two handles on it. When can you begin work?"

"Major, how can I believe you?" wailed the landlady as she shook her head.

"By coming on to take the place next week; by drawing $10,000 a year salary; by riding in your own carriage in less than two months. By the way, have you got $2 with you?"

"I have—but—"

"Then pass it over. I need just $2 more to get out the certificates of stock. That will make $82 that I owe you, and I'll give you $80 worth of stock to cancel the debt."

"But I don't want to hand over $2," she protested as she displayed the bill.

"Woman, would you keep a boarding house all your life or ride around in silks and diamonds? You'll hand it over, of course. That's it, and now can you be here next Wednesday to count your first lot of two handled jugs? John Drew says of them, 'Every true hearted American will buy at least six of them!'"

"But I can't understand it. My head is all in a whirl! I came here for $80 and—and—"

"And you'll get $80,000 before you are through. Your sudden good fortune has upset your wife, but you'll be all right tomorrow. And now, my dear, dear woman—my almost mother—that is all, and you can go home and sell your lease and be all ready for next week. I shall depend on you, and good day—and good day, I'm glad you called."

And she was slowly pushed out and the door closed and locked, and when she pounded on it and asked for her $2 back again the major answered not. He was busy planning a two handled coffee-pot.

True to Her Memory.

In time, of course, Lot took unto himself a new wife.

Shortly after they were wedded the new Mrs. Lot went home to her mother.

"Why, my child," exclaimed her mother, seeing her tears, "what in the world is the matter?"

"Mamma, I just think Lot is the meanest man that ever was," she sobbed.

"Has he been quarreling with you, my pet?"

"N-no. But yesterday we went to buy some things, and when we were pick-picking out the salt-cellar he—

"—boohoo—he-boohoo—oh, I can't finish it."

"Calm yourself, daughter. What about the salt cellars?"

"He asked the clerk if he couldn't show him some mourning ones!"—Chicago Tribune.

Was Well Posted.

"Yes, sir," said the village grocer, "I take the big weeklies to keep track of the world's affairs and the big city dailies to keep posted on what is going on in this country."

"But don't you take your home paper?" asked the drummer.

"Nope."

"But you certainly ought to feel interested in local affairs."

"Oh, I know everything that goes on. My wife belongs to the woman's club and three church societies, one of my daughters works in the millinery shop and the others in the delivery window at the postoffice."—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Far In the Future.

"Don't you ever expect to get married?" she asked.

"Well," replied the old bachelor, "I may some day. But I have been reading up on the subject, and the scientists agree that if a man takes proper care of himself there is no reason why his mind should begin to fail before eighty at least."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Very Thing.

"This is a queer looking spoon hook," said the customer.

"That, sir," said the dealer in sporting goods, "is the very latest. It is called the 'angler's delight.'"

"What's the idea in it?"

"It is a combination spoon hook and corkscrew."—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Old Problem.

"How do you like housekeeping?"

"Well," answered the recently married man, "it's only a partial success. The people who come to visit us are well enough pleased to stay a long time, but we can't get the servant girls to agree with them."—Washington Star.

Two of a Kind.

"The bride was young, I believe, and the groom quite elderly."

"Yes; she was seventeen and he eighty-three."

"Ah, I see! She was not old enough to know better, and he was too old not to know better."—New York Tribune.

Cardigan

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Copyright, 1901, by ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

The soldiers stepped forward to salute; the two rangers laughed scornfully, flung their rifles over their shoulders and passed on into the darkness with noiseless, moccasined stride.

After waiting to see that the crowd dispersed without disorder, I put Warlock to a gallop and overtook the pair. They were arm in arm, swaggering along, ogling the townspeople, jostling the crowd, sometimes mocking the bare shanks of a highlander, sometimes hustling an Indian or tweaking the beard of a Jew peddler, now dodging their caps to some pretty maid, now digging the ribs of a sober Quaker.

Such license and freedom displeased me. I had never before observed it in our town or among those who came to the Hall. However, I now saw that I could not with dignity notice either their boorish gallantry, their mischief or the songs they were pleased to bawl out in the street.

I therefore passed them in silence, and, loosening bridle, set Warlock at a gallop for home.

What quarrel had they with the king's soldiers? They had been courteous enough to me. I did not comprehend it at the time—indeed, the whole matter passed from my mind ere the lights of the Hall broke out in the blue night. Yet the scene I had witnessed was my first view of the unrest which tormented the whole land, the first symptom of that new fever for which no remedy had yet been found.

CHAPTER IV.

It was not yet dawn, though a few birds sang in the darkness around us as Sir William and I set off for the Cayuga's lodge, which stood beyond the town on a rocky knoll, partly cleared of trees.

As we strode on in the darkness, behind us, from a lighted hostelry, came a husky echo of a foolish catch. I knew that my buckskin birds were still chirping among us.

But now we were on the stony way, and the town sank below us as we climbed toward Quicker's lodge, knee deep in dewy thistles.

The spark of a tiny council fire glided us. Coming nearer, we smelled black birch burning, and we saw the long thread of aromatic smoke mounting steadily to the paling stars.

We passed a young basswood tree from which hung a flag, symbol of the Mohawks. From another chestnut sapling dangled the symbol of the Cayugas, a pipe. All at once we saw Quicker standing motionless before the lodge.

Sir William drew flint and tinder from his pouch and sent a spark flying into the dry tobacco of his pipe. He drew it to a long glow twice and passed it through the smoke of the fire to Quicker.

Quicker standing motionless before the lodge.

I saw the Cayuga's face then. It was a strange red, yet it was not painted. He seemed ill. His eyes glittered like the eyes of a lynx.

And now, as the Indian sank down into his blanket before the fire, Sir William produced a belt from the folds of his cloak and held it out. The belt was black with two figures woven in white on it. The hands of the figures were clasped together. It was a chain of peace.

"Brother," he said slowly, "the clouds which hang over us prevent us from seeing the sun. It is, therefore, our business, with this belt, to clear the sky. And we also, with this belt, set the sun in its proper course, so that we may be enabled to see the narrow path of peace."

"Brother, we have heard what you have said about Colonel Cresap. We believe he has been misled, and we have rekindled the council fire at Johnson's with embers from Onondaga, with embers from the Ohio, with coals from our proper fireplace at Mount Johnson."

"We uncover these fires to summon our wisest men so that they shall judge what word shall be sent to Colonel Cresap to secure you in your treaty rights which I have sworn to protect by these strings."

"Brother, by this third and last belt I send peace and love to my brethren of the Cayuga, and by this belt I bid them be patient and remember that I have never broken my word to those within the Long House nor yet to those who dwell without the doors."

Then Sir William drew from his girdle a belt of wampum so white that in the starlight it shimmered like virgin silver.

"Who mourns?" asked Sir William gently, and the Indian rose and answered, "We mourn—we of the Cayuga; we of three clans."

"What clans shall be raised up?" asked Sir William.

"Three clans lie stricken—the Wolf, the Plover, the Eel. Who shall raise them?"

"Brother," said Sir William gravely, "with this belt I raise three clans. I cleanse their eyes, their ears, their mouths, their bodies, with clean water. With this belt I clear their path so that no longer shall the dead stand in your way or in ours."

"Brother, with these strings I raise up your head and beg you will no longer sorrow."

"Brother, with this belt I cover the graves."

In the dead stillness that followed the northern hilltops slowly turned to pink and ashes. The day had dawned.

When again we reached the village, cocks were crowing in every yard, the painted weather vanes glowed in the sun, legions of birds sang.

From Starbuck's inn stumbled forth a blinking, soiled and tipsy company, and I plainly saw my two couriers-de-bois, boozed as owls, a-buzzing the landlord's greasy wench, while mine host pummeled them lustily, foot and fist.

So on through the cold, shadowy street and out into the sun warmed road again, and at last to the Hall.

That day Sir William sat in his library writing with Mr. Butler, so there was no school, and Peter, Esk, Silver Heels and I went a-fishing in the river. And I did not wear my uniform for fear of soiling.

All day long as we sat in the grass to watch our poles a-quiver, horsemen from our stables passed us, galloping east and south, doubtless bearing letters from Sir William to Albany and New York—and farther south, perchance—for there came one rider with six soldiers in escort, and two led horses well packed, all trotting and clattering away toward the Fort Pitt trail.

That day was the last of the old days for us. But how could we suspect that as we waded in the shallows there, laughing, chattering, splashing each other and quarreling to our hearts' content? The familiar river, which every freshet changed just enough to sharpen our eyes for new pools, slipped over its smooth golden stones, inviting our dusty feet. Up to our knees we moved in the ice cold stream, climbing out on the banks at times to warm our legs in the sun and lie deep in the daisies, winking at the swallows in the sky.

We played all our old games again but that we played them for the last time none of us suspected. I held a butterfly under Silver Heels' snowy chin to prove her love for cheese. I played buzzing bee songs on grass blades. I whistled whistles for Peter and Esk. I skipped flat stones. I colored Silver Heels' toes yellow with dandelion juice, so she should ever afterward wade in gold, this at her own desire.

Twice some tiny spotted lady beetles perched on my hand, and Silver Heels, to ward off threatening evil, took them on the pink tip of her little finger, repeating: "Ladybird, ladybird, fly away home! Thy lodge is a-fire! Thy babies will burn!"

Which she said would save me from torture at the stake some day.

Silver Heels and I walked back together through the evening glow, and I remember that the windows of our house were all on fire from the sun as we climbed the hill under the splendor of the western sky.

As we came through the orchard I saw Sir William sitting on the stone seat near the beehives. His chin had fallen on his chest, both hands rested on his cane, and over his body fell the glory of the red sky.

He heard us as we came through the orchard, and he raised his head to smile a welcome, but there was that in his eyes which told me to stay there with him after the others had trooped in to be fed, and I waited.

Presently he said: "Quicker is sick. Did you discover anything in his face that might betoken—a fever?"

"His face was over red," I answered, wondering.

Sir William said nothing more. After a little while he rose, leaning on his cane, and passed heavily under the fruit trees toward the house.

That night came our doctor, Pierson, galloping from the village with an urgent message for Sir William. Later I saw soldiers set out with bayonets on their muskets, and with them the doctor, leading his horse.

TAINTED BLOOD

Columbus, Ohio, May 19, 1903.

Some four years ago I was suffering from impure blood and a general run-down condition of the system. I had no appetite, was losing flesh, and had an all-gone tired feeling that made me miserable. I began the use of S. S. S., and after taking seven or eight bottles my skin was cleared of all eruptions and took on a ruddy, healthy glow that assured me that my blood had been restored to its normal, healthy condition. My appetite was restored, as I could eat anything put before me, and as I regained my appetite increased in weight, and that "tired feeling" which worried me so much disappeared, and I was once again my old self.

I heartily recommend S. S. S. as the best blood purifier and tonic made, and strongly advise its use to all those in need of such medicine. VICTOR STRUBING, Cor. Barthman and Washington Aves.

Wheeling, W. V., May 28, 1903. My system was run down and my joints ached and pained me considerably. I had used S. S. S. before and knew what it was, so I purchased a bottle of it and have taken several bottles and the aches and pains are gone, my blood has been cleared and my general health built up. I can testify to it as a blood purifier and tonic. 1533 Market St. JOHN C. STRAIN.

In the morning we knew that the smallpox had seized the Cayuga and that our soldiers patrolled Quicker's lodge to warn all men of the black pest.

The days which followed were busy days for us all—days fraught with bustle and perplexity; hours which hurried on, crowding one on another like pages turning in a book; turning too swiftly for me to elpher the ominous text.

All Sir William's hopes of averting war were now centered in the stricken Cayuga. He and I haunted the neighborhood of Quicker's lodge, starting for hours at the silent but in the clearing, or, rambling by starlight, we watched the candle burning in the lodge door as though it were the flame of life, now flaring, now sinking in its socket.

Once when from the sentinels we learned that Quicker might live Sir William appeared almost gay, and we walked to a little hill all silvery in the light of the young moon and tested on a rock.

"Black care rides behind the horseman, but—I have dismounted," he said lightly. "Quicker will live, I warrant you, barring those arrows of outrageous fortune of which you may have heard, Michael."

"Do you say that, sir, because I am ignorant of the poets?" I asked.

"Even women know the poets in these days," he said, smiling. "You would not wish to know less than your own wife, would you?"

Suffering

Will Not Help Your Disease, but Will Weaken Your Nerves.

Folk who think it is better to bear pain than soothe it are wrong. Old-fashioned doctors used to say it was better, because they had nothing with which to ease pain but dangerous, heart-paralyzing drugs.

But now, that a safe remedy has been found, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, it is wrong to suffer, for nothing can be gained but weakened nerves.

A safe rule to remember is: When in pain, take an Anti-Pain Pill. This will soothe your quivering nerves. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain by restoring the natural secretions, in which they differ from opium and similar narcotic drugs, which relieve pain by checking the action of the glands.

They are sure and harmless, and are the latest medical treatment for the cure of Headache, Neuralgia, Backache, Rheumatism, Dizziness, Toothache, Stomachache, Menstrual (Monthly) Pains. Also nerve irritations like Sea-Sickness, Car-Sickness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, etc.

Pleasant to take, quick in results. "I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for sick, nervous headache, and have received the best results," heartily recommend their curative properties, for they are successful.—REV. RAY A. WATKINS, D. D., Iowa City, Ia.

ONLY AN ELEVATOR BOY

(Original.)

When the Spanish-American war came on Hawkins & Co. offered special inducements to the young men in their employ to enlist. Every man of spirit—so it was considered—took advantage of the offer. The day before they marched the recruits were given a lunch at the store—a dry goods house—in the lunch room on the top floor. After eating and drinking and being highly commended for their patriotism by a junior member of the firm they went down in the elevator, which was run by Tony Moxon.

"Why don't you enlist, Tony?" asked one of the recruits, Ben Gummings, jeeringly.

Crowded in the back of the elevator was Susie Toole, a pretty cash girl, on whom Gummings had cast longing eyes. He felt the effect of his new uniform, and as there was no Spanish present upon whom to show his pluck he must needs visit it on Tony.

"Oh, Tony's only an elevator boy," said another of the party. "He doesn't count."

"Oh, elevator boys aren't old enough to pass muster," put in another. Since Tony was twenty-two years old and a grown man, this was intended to be witty.

By this time the elevator had reached the ground floor, and the soldiers passed out. Tony, who had not uttered a word in his defense, looked around to see if all had left, when he espied Susie Toole.

"Why didn't you talk back at 'em, Tony?" she asked.

"Talk isn't knocks."

"Well, why didn't you hit at 'em?"

"Oh, I didn't want to tell 'em why I don't enlist."

"Would you like to enlist, Tony?"

"Yes, I would. Anything would be better than the drudgery of running this elevator all day. But I'd like to go anyway. I always had a fancy to be a soldier."

"Why don't you go, then?"

"What would mother do? She'd starve."

"That's right, Tony. You're a noble, good man. You stick to your elevator and your mother."

Susie passed out and was soon answering the shrill calls for "Cash!" running back and forth all day as mechanically as Tony ran his elevator.

The Spanish-American war was of short duration, and when it ended the troops came home. Those from Hawkins & Co.'s store had all been in camp in Florida and had seen no fighting at all.

These young men, were in the same regiment, and one day it was announced that the command would enter the city the next afternoon. Since they would pass down the main street, on which the Hawkins store was situated, the windows of that building were full of people. Of course there was not the same enthusiasm as if the returning troops had gone to Cuba and fought at Santiago, but it was not their fault that they didn't, and they were entitled to a warm welcome.

While the people at Hawkins' were waiting for the troops, suddenly smoke was seen issuing from the upper rear windows, and simultaneously there was a cry of fire. The members of the firm in the office looked at one another with blanched faces. Their building was full of people, and it was on fire.

There would be a slaughter worse than that before Santiago, for the victims would be women and children. The staircases were narrow and steep. On each side of the store were two elevators, but who would run an elevator up into a burning building?

Three of the four elevator boys deserted their posts at the first alarm. The fourth boy was Tony Moxon, and he did not desert his post. The head of the firm was rushing about wildly on the ground floor when he noticed Tony's elevator come down loaded with people. As soon as it could be emptied Tony shut the door and started back. The sight of his insignificant elevator boy going up through the smoke to the region of flames quieted Mr. Hawkins.

It seemed half an hour before Tony came down again and delivered another cargo of women and children. By this time the upper floors were in a whirl of flame, and the smoke on the lower floors was stifling. Nevertheless Tony shut the gate and pulled the wire rope.

"You're not going up again?" inquired the head of the firm, agitated. Before the words were spoken the legs of the elevator boy were just disappearing above the ceiling. Tony stopped this time at the fourth floor. The fifth was too hot for any one to live, he thought, and all must have come down. But, hearing a shriek above, he went on. At the elevator gate lay a body. There was too much smoke to see it distinctly, but Tony took it in and descended, picking up people by the way. When he reached the ground floor there was no one there but Mr. Hawkins.

"I got a corpse here, Mr. Hawkins," said Tony.

The two carried the limp figure out of the elevator, looked at the face and beheld Susie Toole.

That was Tony's last trip. He was about to get into the elevator for another when a fireman seized him.

"You little fool, get out o' here."

Tony yielded to a superior authority, picked up Susie Toole and carried her out on to the sidewalk. At that moment there was a blare of trumpets, a roll of drums, and the United States volunteers made their way through an opening in the crowd effected by the police.

Tony eventually became a partner in Hawkins & Co., but long before that he married Susie Toole.

Use Shoffner's Sure Cure

The Great Tonic and Blood Purifier—Cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia and Catarrh.

It is a trite and true saying that the "blood is the life." Now where does the blood come from? Everybody knows, or should know, that it comes from the nutritive elements extracted by the stomach from the food we eat. If the digestive organs do not perform their functions by reason of disease germs, there is no nutrition extracted, and the food might better be thrown in the dump to decay and breed germs in the open air than to remain in the stomach and become a rotten, putrid mass, as it naturally does if there is no digestion. No disease germ can live and find lodgment in a human body that uses the Shoffner's Sure Cure. Price $1.00.

A ROMANCE

Sisters Meet at Brookport After Many Years.

Neither Knew of the Existence of the Other Until Recently.

We read in the average novel of many romantic scenes and incidents in human life, says the Brookport Eagle.

We have gotten to the point when we relegate such romances to novels only, but the fact is they are manifested before our eyes occasionally, and that in a very remarkable manner.

The meeting of Mrs. Eda Everett Yett, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Mrs. Chas. Coleman, last Sunday was the consummation of a romance at once touching and beautiful.

These two girls were left motherless in infancy and were adopted by separate families and although raised within six miles of each other, neither knew of each other's existence. Many a time no doubt they met on the streets of Knoxville, but for twenty-two years the mystic veil remained unlifted and only last summer did each become cognizant of the other's existence, after which a correspondence was begun and the romance ended last Sunday evening when the sisters met at Mrs. Coleman's home.

Some have said "they can't think as much of each other," but any doubter need but be in the home with them to be convinced of his error, for the two hearts bound together by the strongest of ties, have already become almost inseparable. Mrs. Yett will spend a week here after which she will return to her home, but life will never be the same to them again, for they henceforth will be able to each confide in a sister's love.

LAND FRAUDS

Are Being Closely Inquired Into by the Government.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 25.—Link by link, the government is forging a chain of evidence by which it is hoped to prove the existence of a conspiracy to defraud the United States out of thousands of acres of public lands. United States district attorneys bent their energies to convince the jury by the testimony of A. W. Barber, clerk of the general land office, that the claims in the now notorious "11-7" district, for which homestead patents were issued, were never improved or resided upon by any of the claimants, to whom they were awarded, and that the issuance of patents was upon testimony false from beginning to end.

Suspect Arrested.

Harry Dean, white, was arrested this morning as a suspect. He will be released today if no evidence is secured against him.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Unknown Man Meets Instantaneous Death.

An unknown white man, supposed to be Thomas Cook, was struck and killed by the fast I. C. passenger train which left Paducah at 1 o'clock this afternoon for Louisville.

The man was sitting on the track between Stiles and Little Cypress, and did not seem to want to get out of the way of the train, and owing to its speed it was impossible to stop it.

A foot was cut off and the man's brains were knocked out.

The body was picked up and taken to Calvert City, where an examination showed that he had a letter from Paragould, Ark., addressed to John Cook, Owensboro, Ky. It is supposed the man is John Cook.

He also wore a button of the American Federation of Labor at Paragould, and four fingers were missing from one hand. He appeared about 45 or 50 years old, and the remains will be held.

MORE SUITS

SAM STONE SUES POLICE FOR ALLEGED FALSE ARREST.

Attorney Worren today filed suit for Sam Stone against James Collins, Joe Woods and John Austin for $5,000 for alleged malicious prosecution and arrest. He states that he was arrested with no warrant or charge, taken from his work and kept in the city prison and later removed to Marion and kept locked there for some time. He alleges that he was wanted for nothing and that the arrest and confinement was due to the desires of the officers to run him out of town or intimidate him with hopes he would not bring a suit against the city for damages for working him on the streets.

Attorneys Allensworth and Ross will this afternoon file two suits in circuit court.

They are for D. R. Jones against the Paducah City Railway Co., for $500 damages sustained in an accident at Third and Washington streets when a car ran into his wagon and threw him out, injuring him by bruising and the horse to his buggy up.

Eugene Thompson sues the same company for $500 damages for a broken arm and bruised shoulder. He was in the wagon with Jones when the car struck the wagon and was dragged 30 feet.

Attorney Worren files suit for Will Mack against the City of Paducah for $10,000 damages for alleged illegally working him on the streets to serve out a fine for a misdemeanor in police court.

REGARDED AS LOST.

The Elpis and Seventy-seven Persons Go Down.

Constantinople, Nov. 25.—The Greek steamer Elpis, long overdue, is now regarded as lost. It is believed she sank in a recent gale in the Black Sea, and that her entire crew and a number of passengers were lost, a total of 77 persons.

TWO KILLED

In a Collision of a Train and Traction Car.

Cleveland, Nov. 25.—A Pennsylvania train struck an Akron, Bedford and Cleveland traction car near Bedford this morning. At least two were killed and fifteen were injured and the traction car was reduced to splinters.

Right Leg Crushed.

Mr. J. O. Floyd, who works in the lumber yards of the Rigglesberger plant on South Third street, met with a serious accident this morning shortly before noon. He was piling lumber when a stack fell over on him and caught his right leg. The bones were not broken, but he was horribly bruised and will be disabled for some time. Dr. J. S. Troutman dressed the injury.

Boy Breaks Arm.

Master Warren Gilbert, son of Mr. R. A. Gilbert, the shoe man, while wrestling this afternoon, fell and broke his right arm. Dr. H. P. Sights was called and dressed the injury.

Child Still Improving.

Ruth, the little daughter of Sheriff Newt Harris, of Mayfield, who was accidentally shot last week, continues to improve, and will recover it is thought.

NOTHING TO HIM.

It's nothing to the postman
As up and down he goes Through summer's heat and autumn's haze
And winter's slush and snows
If he is message bearer
Of pleasure or of woe;
He drops the letter in the box
And lightly turns to go.

It's nothing to the postman,
His wage is none the less,
If on a pleasant morn he brings
A missive of distress,
Or if the sky is heavy
With darkening clouds above
He carries to some waiting one
A tender note of love.

The pink and perfumed missive,
Diminutive and neat,
Does not affect his steady heart
And make it faster beat.
The letter draped in mourning
He leaves without a sigh,
And with a cheery greeting
Turns to some passerby.

It's nothing to the postman
As back and forth he flies
Though human hearts are breaking
And moist are heavy eyes
Though joy about the household
Its purple mantle flings,
Though care is sent or lifted
Because of what he brings.

One Way.

"Yes, she married him to reform him."
"And did she succeed?"
"Yes; she kept him so busy paying her bills that he didn't have time for anything else."

Power of the Gavel.

Under the new dispensation one and a gavel make a majority.
A clever speaker with a strong arm and a seasoned croquet mallet can make things come his way no matter how many of the vulgar herd are against him.

When it becomes necessary to carry through a doubtful measure for the good of the party or because it looks good to some of the bosses, the speaker splits in his horny hands, plays "Bedeila" or some other popular song with the gavel on his desk, and the thing is done without the cold formality of waiting for a roll call.

This is one of the safeguards of representative government that no state has found time to write in its constitution. By means of the gavel the majority can make its wish law even though it happens to be in the minority.

Keeping In Trim.

Although the baseball season ends when the weather cools, the umpire thinks of next year's work and trains by breaking mules.

He Knew.

"How I love the dear little children!" exclaimed the enthusiastic young teacher.
"If it is a conundrum I know the answer," replied a small boy, feeling of a sore place.

Something Equally Good.

"Give me the depot," called the man at the telephone.
"It's busy now," replied the girl.
"Wouldn't the courthouse do? It is a much larger building."

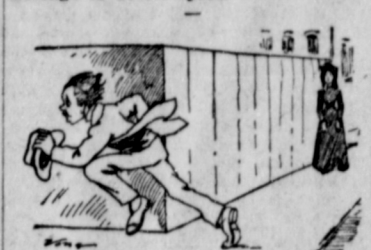

Thought He Was a Wonder.

"I don't believe the speaker knows what he is talking about."
"Neither does the audience. That is why he is making such a hit."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

Dropping a penny in a weighing machine might be called tipping the scales.

Love in a cottage is all right if the cottage is at Newport.

An unmarried man who cares for his liberty will turn and run when he sees a woman in second mourning coming toward him.

The noiseless campaign is an invention which meets with quite general approval.

Of course the teacher who boards round does not always get a square meal.

We have passed the stage of development where a man was considered a statesman just because he could successfully feed a calf.

When a woman wears her hat for two seasons she does not forget to let her husband know about it occasionally.

When a man falls in love with a hullo girl it is a pleasure for him to ring the telephone bells.
